Recycle Beyond the Blue Box

We're all good at putting mixed paper, food cans, glass and plastic containers into the blue box. But what do we do with things like computers, appliances, and tires?

And what about hazardous items like compact fluorescent light bulbs, batteries, medicines, paint, and motor oil? Where do these go?

Find out quickly and easily with MetroVancouverRecycles.org - an online tool that'll help you find places to recycle just about anything.

Reusing is even better, so we've also included listings of thrift shops and charitable groups that will accept donations of working and gently used items. It's also a great way to find places to buy used goods.

It's easy to use!

Type in your postal code or select a city and pick a material.

MetroVancouverRecycles.org will search over 1,300 local businesses to find the closest places to donate, recycle, or safely discard your old stuff!

Whether you're spring-cleaning, renovating, or just going green, MetroVancouverRecycles.org can help you reduce waste in our community.

Reuse, recycle, and safely dispose of:

- Computers and parts
- Cell phones
- Building materials
- Batteries
- Medication & vitamins
- Furniture & appliances
- Clothing
- Household items
- Paint, oils, hazardous materials
- And more!
